Welcome to yet another exciting season in the continuing tradition of the Concordia Stingers men's and women's teams.

The Stingers have achieved prominent successes in the past, and I know our athletes will continue to represent Concordia well in the future. They have demonstrated a willingness to work hard and aim high.

A university education provides more than knowledge and skills in the discipline of your choice. Along with the formal classes, seminars and laboratories, the university experience includes the informal intellectual, social, athletic and cultural encounters that deepen and enrich your understanding of yourself and what you wish to contribute to society.

Intercollegiate sports are an important part of the Concordia experience. Our teams are competitive and continue to be a source of pride to the entire University community. They deserve our full support and loyalty.

Enjoy the games and join me in encouraging the Stingers during the upcoming season.

Harry Zarins
Director of Recreation & Athletics

Harry Zarins

On behalf of the Department of Recreation and Athletics, I would like to welcome you to one of the great traditions of Concordia University. Welcome to the 1997-'98 intercollegiate sports season.

It's a very exciting time for the varsity athletes and their supporters. The Campaign for a New Millennium is under way, and the prospect of new and improved athletic and recreation facilities has given everyone a renewed sense of enthusiasm. The strong show of support from the entire University community is much appreciated. What a way to start our seasons, knowing there's so many people who recognize the importance of having goals and dreams and pursuing them.

I would like to offer my heartfelt thanks to all the people whose support helps keep the Stingers on the leading edge of Canadian university sports. Our student-athletes would not be able to reach such a high level of excellence without the support of sponsors, alumni, fans, friends and family.

I urge you to join me in cheering the Stingers on to great success. I hope to see you often.

Welcome to Concordia University

With approximately 25,000 students (of which 13,157 study full-time), 3,000 faculty and staff members, and more than 80,000 alumni worldwide, Concordia University is one of Canada's largest and most dynamic institutions of higher learning.

From its founding institutions – Loyola College (1896) and Sir George Williams University (1873) – Concordia has inherited a tradition of superior teaching supported by the best possible scholarship, creative activity, research and service to society. The merger of the two institutions took place in 1974.

The university has two campuses: Sir George Williams, which has approximately 42 buildings spread over 13 blocks of downtown Montreal; and Loyola, which sits seven kilometres away on 46 acres in picturesque westend Montreal. The latter has 37 buildings. There is a free shuttle-bus service which runs between the two campuses.

Academic offerings are grouped into four undergraduate faculties: commerce and administration, fine arts, engineering and computer science, and arts and science, covering a total of 180 subject areas. In addition, the School of Graduate Studies offers as many as 61 programs leading to master's and doctoral degrees or graduate diplomas.

Whether you are looking for a highly structured program in a particular field or for the flexibility of interdisciplinary studies, you will find them at Concordia. We have a long tradition of giving students the opportunity to plan programs to suit their needs. In doing so, we have created some of the most innovative educational thinking in the university milieu today.

Concordia University also provides students with programs and services to enhance their academic achievement and promote their personal development as responsible, well-rounded individuals. Student Services recognizes that all development, both intellectual and personal, is affected by a number of circumstances: financial, cultural, physical, ethical and psychological. A wide range of activities and services helps students to cope with challenges in these and other areas. The overall aim of all programs is to ensure that students can make the most of their university experience.

For information on admissions at Concordia call (514) 848-2668. To find out more about playing varsity sports with the Stingers call (514) 848-3862.

Concordia Women's Hockey Coaches

Les Lawton
Head Coach

Head coach Les Lawton is going into his 15th year at the helm of the Stingers. His record with the team is 349-117-47 for a winning percentage of .726. Although it is virtually impossible to check the records of every coach world-wide, we're sure he's the winningest coach in women's hockey. With the Stingers, he has won 10 of 13 Quebec championships and has captured the banner at Concordia's Theresa Humes Invitational Women's Hockey Tournament, which is considered the biggest and best in North America, in each of the last five years. Lawton was also the head coach of Team Canada in 1994 when the team defeated the U.S. 6-3 to win the gold medal at the World Championship in Lake Placid, N.Y. Lawton runs four boys and girls skill development hockey schools for Concordia and also instructs at the Southwest Pro Hockey Development School in Tulsa, Okla., with former NHL great Gary Unger.

Julie Healy
Assistant Coach

Julie Healy, a former Concordia defenceman, is the second in command with the Stingers. She has been behind the Concordia bench 12 years. In addition, she has taken on several provincial and national assignments. In 1993, Healy was head coach of the Quebec under-18 team, which won a silver medal at the national championship. She has been an assistant coach (1994) and head coach (1995) of the Quebec senior team, winning gold medals at nationals both years.

Healy has agreed to be head coach of the provincial senior team again this season. Healy was in the Canadian national team coaching pool from 1994-'96, during that time she took the national team to the Pacific Rim championship in San Jose, Calif., where Canada won a gold medal. More recently, she served as a scout for Team Canada at the Women's World Championships held in Kitchener, Ont., last April.

Former Stinger Brisson shoots for Olympic gold

In February, when Therese Brisson, one of the most prolific women's hockey players in Concordia history, steps on the ice at the Olympics in Nagano, Japan as a member of Team Canada, she'll be taking the final strides toward the culmination of a lifelong dream.

"I remember going to La Ronde in 1975 and sitting on the top of the Ferris wheel with my mom and her pointing and saying, 'There's where the Olympics will be held,' " said Brisson, recalling her first glimpse of Montreal's Olympic Stadium.

"Since then, I've always dreamed of going to the Olympics."

Those who first saw her hit the ice as a ringuette player about 25 years ago, probably have trouble believing Brisson, now 30, is in a position to represent Canada at the Olympics.

"Back in those days, I was a little one," said Brisson of her humble start on Quebec's outdoor rinks. "We had to show up an hour before the game to shovel the rink. The timer was some guy with a watch. The penalty box was a snow bank. One year the playoffs were cancelled when the ice melted. I was so upset."

Things improved when Brisson was nine years old and a new arena was built in Dollard des Ormeaux, her hometown. She eventually went on to become one of Canada's best ringuette players. She played in the first ever world ringuette championship in 1990, winning a bronze medal as a member of the Canada East entry.

Brisson first showed an interest in playing hockey when she was in high school, but it was not until she came to Concordia in 1986 that her potential started to show once coaches Les Lawton and Julie Healy had her make a few adjustments.

"When I came to Concordia - in those years the program was different," she said. "We had good athletes, but not good hockey players. Les and Julie had to teach the game.

"I'll always remember it. I was a forward and Julie said, 'You're going to play defence.' "

A captain in her second season, Brisson played on three championship teams. She was named Concordia Female Rookie of the Year in 1987 and Female Athlete of the Year in 1988 and 1989.

Therese Brisson

Her commitment to hockey continued to grow after her career with the Stingers. Brisson went on to represent Quebec and New Brunswick at several national championships and she became a member of Canada's national women's hockey team in 1993, helping Canada win gold medals in the 1994 and 1997 World Championships.

Brisson studied Exercise Science at Concordia from 1986 to 1989, and recorded the highest grade point average in the faculty while in her final year. She went on to earn a M.Sc. and a Ph.D. in Physical Activities Science from Université de Montréal.

Her contributions as a Stinger were recognized last spring when Brisson became the second women's hockey player inducted into the Concordia Sports Hall of Fame. At the same time, Theresa Humes, who helped the program grow into the best in North America, was inducted as a builder.

Concordia to host inaugural CIAU women's hockey championship

Concordia University will add another page to the annals of women's hockey history when it hosts the inaugural Canadian Interuniversity Athletic Union (CIAU) women's ice hockey championship from Feb. 26 to March 1, 1998.

"From a Concordia point of view, it reinforces our position as the established leaders in the sport," said Stinger head coach Les Lawton. "We hosted the first junior nationals for women's hockey in 1993 and now we will host the first nationally sanctioned women's university championship in North America. We're trailblazers, which is what we want to be."

The announcement that Concordia had beaten out York University as the host for the championship came last June at the CIAU's annual general meeting in Bromont, Que.

"The history of women's hockey at Concordia is extensive, the success of the annual Theresa Humes tournament is widely acknowledged and the visibility of the overall program were all factors that led to Concordia's bid being accepted by the selection committee," said Liz Hoffman, who was the president of the CIAU at the time.

The national tournament will be a six-team competition, with two teams from Quebec, two teams from Ontario, one from the West and one from the East. There will be two pools of three teams. The top two teams in each pool will play a semifinal game Saturday, Feb. 28 and the winners will advance to the gold medal game, which will be played Sunday, March 1 at 3 p.m.

As the host, Concordia has an automatic berth in the championship.

After winning 10 Quebec titles with the Concordia Stingers, Les Lawton finally has a shot at a national championship.

"It's always been a dream of mine to take Concordia to a national championship tournament," said Lawton, who is in his 15th season behind the Stingers bench. "As icing on the cake, we have the opportunity to compete for a national title on home ice."

Having won 10 of the last 13 Quebec university championships, Lawton is sure Concordia would have made the final six at the nationals even without an automatic berth. However, it does make for some interesting planning for the Stinger coaching staff.

"There's definitely an excitement on the team," Lawton said. "When you know you are going to be there, you can build toward it during the season. There's a certain comfort in knowing you don't have to qualify that makes the journey a little different. Now the championship tournament is part of the journey, not the destination."

The Stingers are used to gearing their season toward winning their own annual Theresa Humes tournament, which is held in late January. Since eight of the strongest teams from Canada and the U.S. participate in the competition every year, Concordia has come to think of it as the highlight of the season.

"I guess we'll have to use it as a springboard to the nationals," Lawton said. "Before this year, the Theresa Humes tournament was always our nationals. I guess now we have to go through it twice."

Win or lose, Lawton feels hosting the nationals is a great way to contribute to the progression of women's hockey in Canada.

For information on sponsorship and tickets, or if you are interested in volunteering at the championship, call (514) 848-3862. During the tournament, results will be available by calling (514) 848-3888.

Diversity adds to the Stingers' winning ways

There will certainly be a national flavor to the Concordia Stingers women's hockey team's pursuit of the inaugural Canadian Interuniversity Athletic Union (CIAU) national championship.

The Stingers have personnel from nine of Canada's 10 provinces. From rookie forward Tara Campbell of Delta, B.C. to goaltender Lisa Herritt of Cole Harbour, N.S. to manager Cheryl Schurman of Kensington, PEI, and everywhere in between, Concordia's women's hockey program has made its mark.

Currently, Newfoundland is the only province that has not produced a Concordia Stinger women's hockey player, but head coach Les Lawton has his eye on remedying the situation.

"The Canada Games will be held in

The Stingers' biggest scorer, Corinne Swirsky, is from the smallest town.

Cornerbrook, Nfld., in 1999," said Lawton. "We've recruited many of our players at Canada Games, maybe we can find our Newfoundlander there."

There are 14 athletes from outside Quebec on the team and eight francophones from La Belle Province, so there are some cultural differences within the group. One thing Lawton has noticed is that the Quebecers are "a little more passionate for the game," but generally the coach sees more regional differences than cultural differences.

"I see it in their personalities," he said. "Andrea Babony from the Toronto area has a different outlook on life from Sara Matheson from small town New Brunswick. And Sara is the star women's hockey player from her hometown, while Andrea is just one of many in her town."

Then there's Corinne Swirsky, who is from Thompson, Man., a small town about six hours north of Winnipeg. How small is Thompson?

"They just opened their first McDonalds last summer," Lawton said.

Whether his Stingers are originally from Montreal, Glentworth, Sask. or Calgary, Lawton says there are somethings that transcend their cultural and regional differences.

"We all have a lot in common," he said. "We all love hockey and we all appreciate what we have here as a women's hockey organization."

Dynamic centre takes aim at All-Canadian status

Patrick Groleau plays hockey with guys named Chlebus, Lemanski and Nadeau. Ten kilometres to the east, his brother François Groleau skates with players named Damphousse, Richer and Corson.

Patrick Groleau packs his own bag, carries it to the bus and plays against the Ottawa Gee-Gees and the Toronto Varsity Blues. François Groleau doesn't worry about how his equipment gets to games, flies from one NHL city to the next and plays against the Ottawa Senators and the Toronto Maple Leafs.

The brothers, who call the Quebec City region home, both came to Montreal to play hockey, but that's where the similarities end. Patrick, a high-scoring centre, joined the Concordia Stingers in the fall of 1996. He still loves hockey, but education and laying down the foundations for a career are his priorities now.

He earned a 3.49 grade-point average in his first year at university. Groleau credits his parents, Diane and Yvon Groleau, for preparing him well to meet challenges, both in and out of the classroom.

"I learned a lot from my parents who didn't have the chance to go on in school," he explained. "I watched them work hard all my life. Work ethic is what I learned from them."

Groleau's work ethic has resulted in many successes. After completing high school in Quebec, he decided it was time to expand his horizons. He signed up for an educational exchange program and ended up spending the 1993-'94 school year in Dallas, Tex., where despite being a unilingual francophone, he enrolled for Grade 12 at Marcus High School.

"I didn't have any English when I got there. I thought I did though," he said with a laugh. "I was really confused at first, but after five or six months, I was pretty fluent. I learned a lot. I had fun and I had the opportunity to travel a lot in the States."

He obviously caught on quickly. He graduated from Marcus High School with a 90 per cent average.

The cultural part of the exchange was also fun. He was amused when the people would ask him questions like, "Have you ever eaten pizza?" and "Do you know who Arnold Schwarzenegger is?" He also enjoyed high school football games in Dallas.

"Football is such a big sport down there," Groleau said. "Friday night that's all you do is go to a game at a high school or university. There's nothing else to do in town because everyone is at a game somewhere."

Groleau has a real zest for life. He likes to try new things, explore the world. Right now he's attracted to extreme sports and is considering rock climbing as his next challenge.

"You have to open yourself to the world," he said. "There's more to life than living in your little house and doing your thing. There's so much going on. It's important to go out and meet new people, discover new cultures. I don't see how anyone can turn down the chance to learn."

Academically, his next challenge is to get into Concordia's prestigious Communications program.

"I'd like to be a writer, maybe a script writer," Groleau said. "I'm also interested in producing, photography, then maybe public relations. I wouldn't even mind trying acting."

On the ice, Groleau, a centre who led the Stingers in scoring last season, also has some pretty lofty goals. He's being projected as an All-Canadian, possibly as early as this season. That's a big step up, but once you look at his hockey stats in the years leading up to his arrival at Concordia, you realize just how great Groleau's potential is.

In 1994-'95, he played with Lévis-Lauzon in the CEGEP AA league. He collected 33 goals and 40 assists for 73 points in just 30 games. His numbers were tops on his team and second in the league. The Faucons were regular season, playoff and provincial champions.

The following year, Groleau only played the second half of the season with Lévis-Lauzon. He had 20 goals and 35 assists in 16 games. Again the Faucons won all three CEGEP championships.

It's just a matter of time before Groleau carves out a place for himself in the university hockey ranks, taking his place among Concordia legends like Jim Corsi, Robert Desjardins, Richard Laplante and Mark Kosturik.

Concordia Men's Hockey Coaches

Yves Beaucage
Head Coach

Yves Beaucage joined the Stingers as an assistant coach in 1988 and took over as head coach in 1990. He had an exceptional rookie campaign and was named Ontario University Athletic Association Hockey Coach of the Year.

In his seven years as head coach, he has a record of 106 wins, 123 losses and 15 ties. In conference play, his record is 77-78-11.

Beaucage has done an exceptional job of bringing talented young hockey players to Concordia University. His ability to build and sell his program makes him one of the most dynamic and successful coaches in university hockey. A great educator, Beaucage also runs very successful hockey schools at Concordia, including a unique and innovative adult conditioning camp.

Frank Spinozzi
Assistant Coach

Frank Spinozzi is making his first foray into university hockey. He has extensive experience in the Quebec Tier II ranks. Last year, he was an assistant coach with the Contrecoeur Hawks. In 1995-'96 he was the head coach and general manager with Cowansville, also a Tier II club. With Concordia, Spinozzi's responsibilities will include working with the defencemen and he will do a lot of Concordia's recruiting in Quebec and Eastern Ontario.

Williams makes good impression at national team camp

Vince Williams, a defenceman from Ottawa, arrived at Concordia in September of 1995 thinking he would put most of his energies into doing well in the Leisure Studies program, which he hoped would lead to a career in sports administration or sports law. Playing varsity hockey was also part of the package, but he knew he would be playing strictly for the love of the sport.

Last May all that changed when Williams received an invitation to the Canadian national team's Montreal evaluation camp, which was held May 27-30 at Collège Brebeuf.

"He was the best defenceman at our camp in Montreal," said Andy Murray, the head coach of Canada's national team. "He played physically and he stepped up with the puck."

That kind of review gets you invited to Team Canada's main training camp in Calgary, which was held in September. Williams was one of 39 players battling for 21 spots on the team, which represents Canada at international tournaments like the Deutschland Cup and Spengler Cup. In 1997-'98, Team Canada will play a 65-game schedule, including tours of England, Germany, France, the Czech Republic and Slovakia.

"I was excited about being invited to Calgary," Williams said. "What a great opportunity. I was honored."

On Sept. 7, he reported to Calgary, where everyday he practiced in the morning, worked out in the weight room in the afternoon and played an intra-squad game in the evening.

"Vince did well at the Calgary camp," Murray said. "He was a positive contributor."

Even so, Murray decided to send Williams back to Concordia. He felt another year of university hockey would help him develop.

Vince Williams feels he took full advantage of his opportunity at Team Canada's training camp.

"We felt he needed to work on his creative skills with the puck," said Murray. "We looked at over 220 players (last spring) and he made the final 36. The national team will continue to track his progress."

Williams was happy with his play at the Calgary camp. He was nervous at first, but he felt he made an impression.

"I held my own and at times I felt I stood out," he said. "I feel I took full advantage of my opportunity."

Mid-way through September, the national team was still carrying 25 men, including four Canadian university players. Martin Lapointe from Dalhousie and Evan Marble, Drew Schoneck and Todd Johnson, all from Calgary, were with the team.

"Coming out of Concordia and the CIAU, I feel we're just starting to get recognized and make a name for our program," Williams said. "I think it's great that four players are with the national team. It proves you can move on from university hockey. It's not a dead end league."

Murray agrees, "I don't know if there's a level where there's better coaching. We certainly follow the league. We have a number of (Canadian university) players who are with us now."

Back at Concordia, Williams is attending his Leisure Studies courses and still thinking about a career in sports administration or law, but now there's also the opportunity to take his hockey career further.

Signage:

The key to selling is location.
Where is an audience most captive?
At one of our sporting events.

Football Stadium: Concordia Stadium averages 20,000 spectators during the football season. In addition to this, during the summer months it is home to the Concordia Summer Sports Camp (300 children - ages 5 to 13 - and their parents every week).

Hockey Arena: Concordia Arena averages 60 varsity games per year, as well as more than 100 intramural events, thousands of students during final exams and many other organized hockey and roller hockey events. Concordia Arena also hosts a minimum of three major hockey tournaments every year:

The Theresa Humes Women's Invitational
Loyola High School Tournament
MBA Tournament

Gymnasium: The Concordia Gym hosts more than 70 basketball and volleyball games each year, as well as hundreds of intramural events, three major tournaments and final exams.

Football Stadium	$1,000
Arena	$1,000
Gymnasium	$1,000
Olympia (ice cleaner)	$1,000

For more information on signage and other Stinger marketing opportunities such as advertising in the 1997 basketball, football and hockey programs, call Gerry McGrath at (514) 848-3868.
